OHIO'S GRAND TAX DUPLICATE IS NOW BEING FORECASTED AT ABOUT SEVEN BILLION DOLLARS BY EXPERTS

ALMOST UPSET THE CASE OF STATE

Boy's Story Creates Sensation at the Beattie Trial.

FOUND ANOTHER BLOOD SPOT

Discovered It on the Pike About a Mile and a Half Nearer Richmond Than the Stain to Which Many Witnesses Have Testified—Prosecution Now Compelled to Summon Additional Witnesses—Paul Beattie Undergoes Gruelling Examination.

Chesterfield C. H., Va., Aug. 30.—Alexander Robertson, a lad in his teens, called as a witness for the state to testify against Henry C. Beattie, Jr., nearly upset the case built up against the young man charged with the murder of his wife. What the boy had to say was that on the day after the murder of Mrs. Beattie he had discovered another spot of blood on the Midlothian turnpike than that which had constantly entered in evidence as marking the spot where the woman met her death. This bloodstain, about as big as a saucer, so the boy testified, was about a mile and a half nearer Richmond than that to which many witnesses have testified.

On the face of it this statement has little significance, but in the weight of testimony introduced by the Commonwealth it may have great importance. This is because the theory of the prosecution has been that Henry Clay Beattie shot his wife while she was standing on the road away from the automobile in which she and her husband had ridden up the dark country road; that after a large pool of blood had collected where the murdered woman fell, Beattie had placed the body of the woman in the front seat of the car and driven back.

Final Figures Announced by the State Tax Commission.

1 PER CENT ACT WILL NOT FAIL

Figures on Real Estate in the Eighty-eight Counties of the State Forecast a Grand Tax Duplicate of Nearly Seven Billion Dollars—Commission Itself Adds About Twenty Per Cent of the Entire Increase in Valuation.

Columbus, O., Aug. 30.—The state tax commission announced final figures on real estate in the 88 counties of the state. It forecasts for Ohio a grand tax duplicate of nearly $7,000,000,000. The total value of realty in Ohio as fixed by the commission is $4,246,428,569, as against $1,661,669,958 last year, or an increase of 155.6 per cent, or measured in dollars, $2,584,758,611. All notions that the Smith 1 per cent act will fail, save in a few isolated districts, are set aside by the figures.

The increase in real estate, as finally announced, exceeds the total grand duplicate of last year. The commission itself added about 20 per cent of the entire increase after local boards had said the real property had been appraised at its true value in money.

In Paulding county the commission and the present board of review found the real estate values so low that they were raised 378.5 per cent, while in Carroll county the increase was only 75.6 per cent. Lorain county was raised 226.8 per cent. Auglaize, Ashland, Defiance, Erie, Fayette, Fulton, Hardin, Henry, Jefferson, Mahoning, Mercer, Putnam, Sandusky, Scioto, Tuscarawas, Van Wert and Williams counties were increased more than 200 per cent, the present values being more than three times those of last year; while Morgan, Hamilton and Carroll counties were increased less than 100 per cent.

Adams county, the object of so much scorn from its sisters because of its vote-selling scandals, was the only county in the state where the local board of review worked so well that the commission did not find it necessary to make large additions to the duplicate.

For the entire state the increase amounts to 155.6 per cent, making the present figures more than two and one-half times as great as those of last year. For individual counties, however, the variation from this average covers a very broad latitude.

DRIVER STRUCK BY LIVE WIRE

Took Hold of It With His Hands and Couldn't Let Go.

DIRECTS THE WORK OF RESCUE

Warned Those Who Rushed to His Aid and Dropped Dead When the Wire, Which Carried Twenty-four Hundred Volts, Was Knocked From His Grasp—Tragic Ending of a Man of Family on a Thoroughfare of Warren, Ohio.

Warren, O., Aug. 29.—While he tried for assistance, yet warning of his rescuers, Thomas Lansdown was electrocuted. He was driving along the street when a telephone wire fell across a power wire and struck him. He tried to push the wire, carrying 2,400 volts, away from him, but after taking hold of it with his hands, he couldn't let go.

His cries were heard by Fire Chief D. K. Moser, who rushed with others to him and started to tear the wire away. "Don't touch it or you'll be killed," warned Lansdown, who could hardly articulate, so distorted was his face and convulsed his body. "Get something to grab it with and hurry or I'll be killed."

Moser and others who had rushed up hesitated. "Get one of those baskets over there and catch the wire with the handle," screamed Lansdown. Moser followed his instructions, but as he pulled the wire out of Lansdown's hands, the man dropped dead. Lansdown was 26 and leaves a wife and two children.

Congressman Johnson In the Air

Washington, Aug. 30.—Representative Ben Johnson of Kentucky took a trip in an airship as the guest of Lieutenant H. H. Arnold, U. S. A. Mr. Johnson had an experience he will not forget in a hurry. The weather was stormy and the wind was blowing nearly 30 miles an hour. At a height of 700 feet Lieutenant Arnold had trouble with his machine and it nearly toppled over. For a second or two the Kentuckian thought his career had come to an end.

Mrs. Sinclair Seeks Not Soul Mate

Does Not Wish to Be Associated With the Affinity Hunters.

New York, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Meta Fuller Sinclair said at the house of her father, H. M. Fuller, here, that she doesn't see any parallel between her case and that of Ferdinand P. Earle. "There is an absurd note in some of the articles that have appeared about me that I do not like," she said. "I refer principally to the stress laid upon my intention to seek what they are pleased to call a soul mate. I do not wish to be associated with soul mates or affinity hunters. I tried simply to show how I felt on marriage and divorce, and to show what has led to the position in which I find myself."

Grand Duke Alexis Will Some Day Rule Over Two Hundred Million

GRAND DUKE ALEXIS is a fortunate boy or he is doubly unfortunate, according to the way you look at it. He is fortunate in being the adored son of the czar of Russia—doubly adored because four sisters preceded him as members of the czar's family, and it began to look as if no heir to the throne was to be born. Consequently the boy brought by the stork Aug. 12, 1904, got a welcome that was more than cordial. When he ascends the throne the country over which he will rule will probably have a population of more than 200,000,000. The unfortunate part of the boy's life lies in the fact that the ruler of Russia does not lie in a bed of roses. Some of that country's czars have been assassinated, and the occupant of the throne lives in constant dread of the assassin's bullet or bomb. No matter what his ability or his intentions, there will be troubles for the little czar-vitch when he drops the last two syllables of his title. Just now he is not worrying about the future, but is enjoying the present. The picture above was made by his deoting father, who is an enthusiastic and expert amateur photographer.

The Danger of Sickness As a Result of Storm

Heavy Rains Augment Flood in Charleston Streets.

Charleston, S. C., Aug. 30.—As a result of the storm which swept this city, 12 persons are known to be dead, while the damage to property will largely exceed $1,000,000. These figures refer only to the city proper. The death list and the property loss are expected to be greatly increased when the outlying districts are heard from. The damage was undoubtedly great on the coast islands. Great relief was felt here when the Clyde line steamer Apache made port after a rough experience off this harbor during the hurricane. Passengers were life preservers for several hours and were prepared to leave the ship at any moment. It is stated by passengers that the stokers kept at their work at the points of revolvers. Charleston has gone to work to clear away the evidence of the storm. The streetcar traffic is being resumed and train service is nearly normal. In the low-lying sections there is much suffering, and the danger of sickness because of the storm effects is said to be great. Heavy rains contributed to the height of water in the streets and yards caused by the abnormal tide, many lower floors being inundated, with loss to household effects.

There is general criticism here that the weather bureau failed to give proper warning of the approach of the storm.

James Eads How, millionaire hobo, traveled from Washington to Baltimore on foot to attend the meeting of the Brotherhood of Welfare association.

Placards Denounce Liquor Dealers

Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Placards denouncing men engaged in the liquor traffic as home-wreckers, responsible for crime, insanity and high taxes, greeted 500 delegates to the annual convention of the State Liquor Dealers' association. At the session in the state armory all of the speakers excepting State Commissioner of Excise W. W. Farley referred to the incident. Mayor Irving, who returned from a vacation to welcome the delegates, told them that public sentiment here is reflected by the action of the chamber of commerce, which invited the gathering, rather than by the signs on trees and fences.

Alleged Forgery Cases.

New Philadelphia, O., Aug. 30.—Sheriff John Polen started for Minneapolis to get W. W. Ramsey, arrested for the alleged forging of two checks on the Dennison National bank. Ramsey is also wanted in Canton for alleged horse stealing. Edwin A. Curtis, alias Miller, Brown, Bell and Arthur Curtis, was arrested here after passing an alleged bogus check for a small amount in a clothing house.

Money Kings Flayed In Speech

Members of American Bar Association Hear Sensational Address.

Boston, Aug. 30.—In the most sensational address in the history of the conservative American Bar association, its president, Hon. Edgar Farrar, flayed the trusts and the laws under which they are organized. The big financial interests of the country, especially the money kings of New York, were denounced in bitter terms as law-breakers and law-evaders, who plan to control the liquid finances of the nation in a gigantic money trust.

The coming conference of the state governors in New Jersey was urged to devise a plan to save the country from the interests. Attorney General Wickersham was assailed for the suggestion that the government should fix prices of commodities, which was characterized as "monopolist and Socialist reaching a common ground, and such a plan," Farrar said, would "shatter America's free democracy." Mr. Farrar also denounced the idea proposing recall of the judiciary.

WILSON ON THE JOB

Assistant Secretary Is Acting Pilot of Ship of State.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Huntington Wilson, assistant secretary of state, has come to be regarded in Washington as the official occupant of the "lid." Last summer, after every cabinet officer had followed Mr. Taft's example and fled from Washington to a cooler place, Mr. Wilson was on the job.

All those in official life who outrank Mr. Wilson have gone again this year.

Mr. Wilson is the ranking assistant secretary; therefore he is the acting pilot of the ship of state. There are one or two other assistants to cabinet officers in Washington, but they are simply waiting for an opportunity to take a rest.

Letters Returned To Senders

Bundle of Letters That Carried the McNamara Stamp.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 30.—A bundle of letters sent out by Cincinnati labor unions were returned to the senders by the postoffice department because they had McNamara defense fund stamps affixed in violation of the new postal statute against stamps resembling in shape and size the regular postage stamps. The McNamara defense stamps are being used by hundreds of labor organizations throughout the country on the same principle as the Red Cross stamps are used during the Christmas season to aid in the fight against tuberculosis.

Charge Against Cold Storage Companies In New York.

New York, Aug. 30.—The prosecution of one cold storage company was started today in the Tombs court, and before the end of the week it is understood that three other concerns will be summoned to explain why their warehouses do not conform with the regulations of the Brennan law. Thomas A. Brennan, the assemblyman who drafted the bill, has been retained as special counsel for State Health Commissioner Porter.

Reports have been received from the inspectors, who are swinging through the up-state counties as well as this city, and thus far prosecutions have been started in Buffalo, Syracuse, Rochester, Utica and Corning.

"The representatives of the cold storage people who appeared in opposition to the bill when it was in committee in Albany," said Mr. Brennan, "urged that the high cost of living was not due to unlimited storage, but rather to the fact that production had not increased in proportion to the population. But statistics prove that, whereas in the last 10 years the population of the country

Over 30,000 votes were cast in The Herald and Register's great contest yesterday, and in some instances the leaders were those who were at the bottom of the list a few days ago. Of this large number of votes published yesterday, Miss Babe Evans had the greatest number, her total standing yesterday was 16,325, which put her first in the entire contest.

She was not the only one by any means who made very noticeable changes in their standing. Miss Meda DeWitt cast 3000 votes, bringing her mark up to 15,800 votes. Miss DeWitt up until now, has not been looked upon as a dangerous candidate, but it is very evident that from now on she will have to be reckoned ling every day, and will make her go some to win out.

Miss Pearl E. Gates leads the entire contest today, followed by Miss Laura Campbell, Miss Mary O'Farrell, Miss Grace Louderback, and every other candidate in the First District. It would be next to impossible for any one to pick the winner in this district, for all have their friends, and all realize that the contest is only just started, and that no one has lead enough to feel at all sure of standing first at the close.

Miss Lena Horton, Miss Ruah Edwards, Miss Chloe Boncutter, and Miss Mary Alkire, are very close, neither have any great lead over one another, all have their plans laid for a hard campaign, and each and every one have a very good chance right now for the $600 Player Piano. It surely will be a race worth watching in this district.

There is an excellent chance for a NEW candidate to take the lead during the next week in District No. 2. While several are working in this district, no one has a lead which can not be overcome in a few hours of systematic work. A new candidate can be expected to enter the contest in No. 2, at any time, and they will stand an excellent chance of winning the grand prize should they enter within the next few days. Candidates in this district had better put to town with it. The prosecution has had many witnesses state that it would have been impossible for the large pool of blood to have collected had Mrs. Beattie been shot while she was sitting in the car, as Beattie alleges she was when she met her death.

The lawyers for the defense had summoned the boy as a witness and had intended to throw a surprise into the prosecution by bringing out through this boy that there had been another telltale mark a mile and more away from the first. This was to have been the support of their theory that everything had occurred as Beattie said; that when his wife was shot her blood had dropped through the floor of the car to the road, and that again when he stopped outside of Richmond to light a lamp that had gone out, the same thing occurred.

Attorney Wendenburg for the prosecution will now have to summon several witnesses to testify that it is physically impossible that fluid spilled on the front seat in the automobile in which Beattie took his wife out to ride on the night of July 18 should drop through to the ground.

Paul D. Beattie, cousin of Henry C. Beattie, Jr., remained calm and unmoved under a savage volley of questions from counsel for the defense. The prisoner glared at his young kinsman throughout the examination. Paul answered easily and rapidly all the questions hurled at him in an effort to break down his story of Henry's alleged confession of the murder.

Second in importance to the boy's surprising testimony was the statement made by Harry Smith, Jr., chief counsel for the accused, that Henry Beattie would take the stand in his own behalf before the defense was through. In the opinion of all who have been following the case, there can be but one story for Beattie to tell on the stand. This will be the tale of the bearded highwayman who suddenly stepped from the shadows of the turnpike and, without reason, shot Mrs. Beattie dead. He will have to denounce as falsehoods every detail of the story told by Beattie, his cousin.

with in the race for the First Grand Prize.

In the first district the race is more exciting and even, every candidate in this district is working hard, and not one can feel that they have anything like a permanent lead, no one has any prize won now, and from now until the finish, great changes can be looked for in the standing of the different candidates.

In District No. 2, Miss Myldred Rife lead yesterday. Miss Rife is very popular in her district, and will set a fast pace before the contest is many days older. Today Miss Laura Tharp leads in District No. 2. Miss Tharp has many friends in her vicinity who promise to make her the winning candidate, and she can be depended upon to do her part in the great race. Miss Tharp is closely followed by several others who are husttheir shoulder to the wheel and work hard every day from now on until the close, or they will find that some quiet hustler has taken advantage of the extra vote offers, and secured enough votes to put them away in the lead.

Your attention is called to the Extra Vote Offers which will be run from week to week from now until the close of the contest, every week a different offer will be given, but each will allow a smaller number of Bonus Votes, so right at the start of every vote offer is the time to get busy and make every moment count until the close of the vote offer. Remember you have a good chance to win, and it rests solely with you whether you do win or not.

TO BE A WINNER.

First—Familiarize yourself with the conditions of the contest.

Second—Let your friends know that you are in to win and you will be surprised to see your score shoot upward in a very short time.

THE VOTE OFFER.

For every 12 new subscriptions turned into this office between Aug. 24 and Aug. 31, at 5:30 p. m., 12,000 extra votes will be given. For every 25 new subscriptions, 30,000 extra votes will be given.

NOTICE

To Contestants In
District No. 2

Subscriptions that are mailed before the special offer expires, Thursday, August 31st, at 5:30 p. m., will be allowed extra votes even if they are not received at this office until the next day. This will give the contestants in the rural districts an even chance with the Washington candidates and enable them to work up until the hour the special offer closes.

LITTLE LAD OF SIX YEARS SHOOTS HIS STEPMOTHER

The accidental discharge of a shot gun which was "not loaded" caused the death of Mrs. Ed Myers, of Madison county, when her six-year-old step son playfully pointed it at her and pulled the trigger, the charge tearing the woman's head nearly off.

Mr. Myers, who had married the unfortunate woman a few days before, was in London at the time, and although the tragedy occurred in the morning he did not learn of it until he returned home in the evening, and was met by the little tot, who, with two younger children, had been left with the step-mother. The little boy tearfully told his father the horrible news by saying: "Papa, we had bad luck. I shot Lucy."

The frightened husband and father rushed in the house and in an up-stairs room found his wife of two weeks stretched out on the floor in a pool of blood with most of her head blown away. The coroner returned a verdict of accidental death. The little tot who did the shooting did not realize what he had done.

New Physician Hangs Out Shingle

Dr. H. L. Stitt son of Mr. J. V. Stitt, druggist of Bloomingburg, has leased a suite of office rooms in the Dennis building opposite the court house on Market street, and will hang out his shingle the latter part of this week.

Dr. Stitt recently finished a year at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Cincinnati, where he assisted in medicine and surgery. He has been studying medicine for a number of years, and has a promising future before him.

Charles Alexander Pinched Charged With Many Thefts

A colored man, giving the name of Charles Alexander and claims this city as his home, is under arrest in Wilmington charged with a series of petty thefts, and his case looks like a work house sentence.

Alexander went to the home of a Mrs. Arch Anthony on Grant street in Wilmington, and under the pretext of securing board, watched his opportunity and when Mrs. Anthony left the room for a moment, he seized a purse which lay on the mantel and took his departure.

Mrs. Anthony soon missed the purse which contained several dollars in silver, and notified the police. Alexander was soon spotted. He took to his heels, pursued by Marshal Sliker and Deputy Sheriff Oscar Moore, who chased the fellow to a spot near the C. A. & C. stock pens and captured him.

He was lodged in jail, and a number of cases of petty thieving have been placed at his door. The charges against him will be thoroughly investigated, and Alexander will probably get a job in the Xenia "Broom Factory."

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

Mrs. Val McCoy entertained with a most pleasurable luncheon at her delightful country home Tuesday in compliment to Mrs. Luella Herbert and Miss Mary Robinson, of Columbus.

The guests were Mrs. Robert Palmer, Cincinnati; Miss Helen Steece, Ironton; Mrs. Hamor Conn, Cleveland; Mesdames Roy Hegler, Maude Harlow Coffman, Jos. P. Bailey, Jos. H. Harper, Misses Anne Quinn and Lina Willis.

Miss Urcell Porter filled the role of hostess at a charmingly informal affair given at her home last night. After an hour of progressive 500, in which Mr. James Dunn won the prize, a handsome deck of cards, came two cleverly planned and amusing contests.

Appetizing refreshments were served during the evening.

Those attending were Misses Helen Harper, Ada Woodward, Dorothy Fullerton, Edna Fenner, Mary Tysor, Lillian Davis, Constance Ballard, Marie Mobley, Messrs. James Dunn, Hugh Kennedy, Bud Tharp, Maxwell Dice, Pitt Fitzgerald, Paul Dunn, Davis Edwards, Robert Cullen, Ralph Strobel.

Y. M. C. A. Walls Nearing Third Story

With a bevy of bricklayers as busy as bees, the walls of the handsome Y. M. C. A. building are rapidly approaching the third story, and the immense steel stringers, each weighing many tons, have been lifted into shape.

As the walls go upward, the beauty of the structure becomes apparent, and when completed it will be a very attractive building. The walls should all be completed before the first frost falls unless something unforeseen should arise to retard the work.

GRAND RIGHT AND LEFT AMONG C. A. & C. EMPLOYEES

Local Force is Shifted About Considerably

SUBSTANTIAL DEPOT IMPROVEMENTS

Being Made by the Pennsy at Its Local Freight House.

A number of changes have taken place at the C. A. & C. depot in this city within the past few days, due to the promotion of Mr. Rolland Heiskell, chief clerk and cashier, to the position of joint ticket agent at the N. & W. and C. A. & C. depot in Circleville. This promotion is merited by Mr. Heiskell whose careful and efficient work at the local depot has been very pleasing to the officials.

This necessitated some changes among the employees here, and J. F. Evans, day operator, was made chief clerk and cashier, and Ed Schleich was promoted to day operator. Graham Fearill was then promoted to the position held by Mr. Schleich.

In accordance with the policy recently adopted of giving passes to men who have been employed three years or over, passes were forwarded to four of the employees at this place a few days ago, much to their pleasure. Employees who have been in the service five years or over can secure passes for themselves and wife, while those who have been employed over ten years are entitled to passes over the entire system.

The old platform around the freight depot is being torn away and a new platform is taking its place as rapidly as it can be constructed. A new platform has been needed for a long time, and when completed, it will be much larger than the old one and a vast improvement, as the old one had become so delapidated that the truck men experienced considerable difficulty in trucking the freight from place to place.

The report that 20,000 employees of the Pennsylvania lines has caused some little uneasiness among certain employees of the C. A. & C. in this city, lest the laying off of men affect the force here, and all have so much work to look after that to lay off a single man would work a hardship on the others.

Distinguished Welshman Coming Here

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 30.—Editor J. Owen Charles of the Druid, a Welsh newspaper published here, is authority for the statement that David Lloyd-George, the most distinguished of living Welshmen, chancellor of the exchequer in the British cabinet, is coming to Scranton in September to attend a grand Welsh festival to be held in Luna park, this city. Mr. Charles recently returned from a visit to Wales and England. He states that Mr. Lloyd-George, who he describes as the most democratic man he met while abroad, gave him positive assurance that he would be present at the festival.

God Bless Our Wives.

One of the best known lawyers in Cleveland attended a banquet of his fraternity the other night and responded to the toast, "Our Wives." On this classic and congenial theme he expanded and fairly glowed. But even after his eloquence fades from the memories of those present one personal note will remain. He said in part:

"God bless our wives. They know us from alpha to omega, our secret faults and virtues. But they rise in arms against him who would expose the former or belittle the latter. How well I remember an occasion upon which my own dear wife had me paged in a restaurant where I was eating. He said to the waiter, 'Is Mr. Dashblank here?' 'Mr. Dashblank?' asked the waiter. 'Is he that fat old man with a red nose and bald head?' 'Yes, that's the man,' answered my wife. 'But I want you to understand that he isn't fat and he isn't old. And he's not very bald, either. I shall report you for your insolence. His nose isn't a bit red. Get him for me at once. You evidently know him.' 'God bless our wives.'—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Bungled It, After All.

Here's one of Will Irwin's stories, told in that quiet, drawing fashion which scores every point. Two of his feminine friends, it appears, were walking down the street the other day, when they noticed another woman just in front of them. "That lady's waist is unbuttoned in the back," said one to the other. "I believe I'll speak to her about it."

"The other looked over the unconcerned subject of comment. Then she shook her head. 'I don't believe that I would say anything to her,' said she. 'I doubt if she is the kind of person who would appreciate your kindness. She isn't very neatly got up, don't you see? Her shoes are horribly run down at the heel.'"

"I don't care," said Mr. Irwin's acquaintance. "Any woman would be glad of a warning that her waist is unbuttoned. I don't care if she doesn't seem to be a very nice person. I shall call her attention to it."

"And so," said Mr. Irwin, "she walked up to the stranger and tapped her on the shoulder. As the woman turned she said, just as sweetly as she knew how: 'Pardon me. But did you know that your shoes are run down at the heel?'—Herbert Corey in Cincinnati Times-Star.

The Missing Bed.

The house dated from the fifteenth century, and visitors were permitted to go over it for sixpence a head. Of course Queen Elizabeth had slept there, and the boy in buttons who conducted the party mentioned this three times in the sacred bedchamber. Most of the furniture had a look of the period, though there were a few doubtful embroideries.

"And where," one of the visitors asked, "is the bed in which Queen Elizabeth slept?"

The boy in buttons hesitated a moment and then said, "That's being made, sir."

ELECTROCUTE THE BUGS.

That wonderful, unknown, indefinable something, which, perhaps for want of a better name we call electricity, as an agent to destroy the codling moth and other bug pests is the latest innovation introduced in modern apple orcharding. A practical grower of the Pacific slope has made what is declared to have been the first demonstration of its kind in the world. The test was made in a six-year-old orchard and more than a score of second-brood moths and many green aphids were killed in a few moments.

The apparatus consists of a storage battery to charge the incandescent light globes, each of six candle power, which are netted with fine steel wire, coated with copper and tin, alternately. Attracted by the bright lights in the trees, to which the globes are carried at the ends of a covered wire, the moths fly against the netting, complete the electric circuit and are instantly killed, the bodies falling into a receptacle placed beneath the globe.

It is estimated that one battery to an acre of trees will keep the moths under control, thus eliminating the usual spraying and saving many dollars annually for help, equipment and fluid. The inventor of the system is now preparing to wire his orchard of 10 acres, containing 700 trees, and several neighbors, who witnessed the initial test, are doing likewise. It is reported that several thousand acres of bearing apple trees will be equipped with exterminators by next spring.

If commercial electric light wires are extended to the orchard tracts, as they are in many of the valleys in Washington, Idaho, Oregon and Montana, the expense of batteries may be saved by making direct connection. The cost of covering the globes with wire nets is a small item and any electrician can do the work.

This successfully conducted experiment may open up an entirely new and another practically limitless field of activity for electrical appliances.

It was thought when Morse harnessed the mysterious power caught by Benjamin Franklin and perfected his wonderful telegraph that the limit of adapting an unknown power to man's use had been reached. Since Professor Morse first elicited off the mysterious code which the skeptically inclined of that day refused to believe until positive verification of the transmitted news came by stage coach, the uses to which electricity has been put have been manifold and now it is one of the greatest aids to man's comfort and luxury.

This same electricity has been the greatest factor in annihilating the vast distances of this immense country. It has brought the east and the west together and has made of a widely scattered people, so far as business, public and private, is concerned, one happy and compact family.

In a flash—literally—we communicate with the most remote sections until now there is no distance to traverse and no time to wait.

Now it is proposed to rid the orchards of the plague of insects and after all other means have failed try electricity.

Why not? It has met every other burden placed upon it and has solved existing puzzles before.

Kind of Woman That Women Like Best

By DR. GRACE E. CROSS

every young girl when she looks up to some older woman teacher or friend with an affection which approaches adoration. Upon her conduct she molds her own; her sayings she regards as inspired, and from her counsel, if it be beneficent, she will receive, at this plastic period, an untold influence for good. If the girl becomes a self-reliant woman, this experience passes for all time, but there will always be weak sisters who must cling, if not to a man, then to a woman who possesses the useful attributes of the sturdy oak.

The protective or maternal element naturally belongs to a woman's mature life. It reaches out to what is weaker than herself. To one who needs help she gladly gives herself, and in the giving comes to love the object of her spiritual bounty. Necessary as is this type of friendship to the ethical economy of the race, a danger lurks therein. There are some women in whom the primitive instinct of self-sacrifice has not yet given way to the saner individualism which counts it wrong to submerge one's own personality in the vain effort to live another's life. It is well to aid and support, but it is essential that a strong woman's friendship for a weaker one shall neither eventuate in futile self-sacrifice nor degenerate into a mere satisfaction in flattering dependence of an inferior.

Bible Gives Love Code, Says Pastor

The Bible contains the best rules for courtship and love.

If the young men and women of the present generation will read the Bible as a guide, the divorce courts will be empty, love will reign in the home and the social problems of the country will be minimized.

So said the Rev. Olin Mason Caward, pastor of the Normal Park Presbyterian Church, in Chicago, in discussing his series of lectures to the younger set of his congregation, in which he is urging them to read the Bible as a "guide to happiness and love."

His remarks, the pastor declared, were not meant for the young men and women of Chicago alone, but for those of New York, Boston—in fact, all of the large cities of the country. "The Bible," said Dr. Caward, "in its pages of sacred wisdom, is the measure of a man or woman's qualification for and the unfailing guide to love and happiness.

"Love is not its own happiness, and the divorce courts clearly indicate that. It is a strange fact that man and woman need a guide above human frailty. They need a divine ideal and a divine measurement.

Need "Hearts of Wisdom."

"To-day we are training our men and women in art and science, but not in the proper exercise of affections. The young man and woman have heads of wisdom, but no hearts of wisdom. Marc Antony had a head of wisdom, but no heart of wisdom. He trusted to his heart, and he had no divine criterion, and he fell, and with him his way of empire.

"The heart, if not divinely directed, will lead one far from happiness in love. God has given us the Bible as the guide in life. It is therefore to be considered as a guide to happiness in love. With a religion as a basis and the Bible as portraying the ideal sweetheart and husband or wife, the young man or woman seeking a true life partner cannot go astray if measured by the wisdom of that book.

"Let the Bible, therefore, be the criterion. It is full of examples of the lover who is the model of God's workmanship. It tells the unfailing signs of a true, manly heart. It points out the characteristics of a perfect woman."

POETRY FOR TODAY

THE SEA.

She was rich and of high degree;
A poor and unknown artist he.
"Paint me," she said, "a view of the sea."

So he painted the sea as it looked the day

That Aphrodite arose from its spray;
And it broke, as she gazed on its face the while.

Into its countless dimpled smile.
"What a poky, stupid picture," said she;

"I don't believe he can paint the sea!"

Then he painted a raging, tossing sea,
Storming, with fierce and sudden shock.

Wild cries, and writing tongues of foam,

A towering, mighty fastness-rock.
In its sides, above those leaping crests,

The thronging sea birds built their nests.

"What a disagreeable daub!" said she;

"Why, it isn't anything like the sea!"

Then he painted a stretch of hot, brown sand,

With a big hotel on either hand

And a handsome pavilion for the band—

Not a sign of water to be seen,
Except one faint little streak of green.

"What a perfectly exquisite picture!" said she;

"It's the very image of the sea."
—Life.

Bible that best portray love ideals and give rules to love happiness, the minister opened his Bible and turned to the Book of Proverbs.

"The proverbs," he said, "are an excellent guide in the matter of choice. For instance, listen to this."

Then Mr. Caward read the twenty-second chapter of the Book of Proverbs from the first verse, choosing parts at random. They follow:

"A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches,
And loving favor rather than silver and gold.

A prudent man seeth the evil and hideth himself;
But the simple pass on and suffer for it.

He that hath a bountiful eye shall be blessed,
He that oppresseth the poor to increase gain

And he that giveth to the rich cometh only to want."
Seest thou a man diligent in his business?

He shall stand before kings; he shall not stand before mean men.

"Now any young woman," continued the pastor, "can use those proverbs for her guide in reaching the realm of happiness in love. They make a criterion and a guide book even better than the dictates of her heart, because those impulses need a higher dictation, and that should come from God, speaking through the pages of the inspired book. If she chooses by the lessons herein she shall not be a figure in the divorce courts."

Then the minister pointed out the value of the sacred book to the young men seeking guidance in their search for true love and faithful wives. He referred the interviewer to the thirty-first chapter of the Book of Proverbs, verse 17 to the last verse. Some of these follow:

"A virtuous woman who can find?
For her price is far above rubies.
The heart of her husband trusteth in her.

And he shall have no lack of gain,
She doeth him good and not evil.
All the days of her life,
She seeketh wool and flax,
And worketh willingly with her hands.
She is like the merchant ships,
She bringeth her food from afar.
She riseth also while it is yet night,
And giveth meat to her household.
And their task to her maidens,
She stretcheth out her hands to the poor;

Yea, she reaches forth her hands to the needy.
Strength and dignity are her clothing,
And she laugheth at the time to come."

ORANGE CHEESE CAKES—Peel the yellow rind from two oranges and boil in a saucepan of water until tender. Drain, and when cold, pound to a paste with one-quarter of a pound each of powdered sugar and butter. When smooth add gradually the beaten yolks of eight eggs and one tablespoonful each of brandy and sherry. Line some patty pans with puff paste, fill with the mixture, and bake in a quick oven.

PEACH AND SAGO PUDDING—Soak one-quarter of a pound of sago over night in cold water. Pare one quart of peaches, put them in a buttered pudding-dish and pour over the sago. Add three tablespoonfuls of sugar and one cupful of water, and bake for an hour in a moderate oven. Serve hot with cream.

Q.—The Apostle Paul wrote, "She shall be saved in childbearing, if they continue in faith and love and holiness" (I Timothy ii, 15). Do we understand that this is to be taken literally and that the Christian mother shall be specially favored during childbirth?

Answer.—Yes, we understand, that the Christian mother may reasonably expect to be saved (preserved) from much of the anguish incident to motherhood. As a Christian her mind should rest fully upon the Lord, His love and His care. Dread should be dismissed, since He has promised that "All things shall work together for good to the Christian" (Romans viii, 28). Thus doing, some of the chief factors of anguish would be removed. Feelings intensify nearly all the difficulties and trials of life. With the Christian, perfect love for God and the complete realization of the Lord's love for him, should cast out all fear, and produce, instead, the peace of God which passeth all understanding, not only in our hearts, but also in a large measure in our flesh. One who in sobriety of mind and love for God, meditates upon His goodness and love would surely be relieved of much worry and trouble incident to motherhood, since God has promised that He will "keep him in perfect peace whose meditation is upon the Lord" (Isaiah xxvi, 3).

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Constipation.

Dr. Sibley says in "Therapeutic Medicine" that a rectal injection of a dram or two of olive oil at bedtime will often give satisfactory relief the following morning. This method is often to be preferred to the use of the enema, which washes the mucus from the lining of the intestine and induces an unnatural habit requiring continuance. But both must be regarded as emergency methods, the aim always being to secure regularity by natural methods, which only can be permanent and satisfactory. When a tablespoonful of oil is taken morning and evening or with a meal of prunes, figs or other sugar fruits or with buttermilk, a considerable portion is assimilated to supply heat and energy.

has increased 20 per cent, food production, including cattle, have increased 40 to 60 per cent. The increased cost is due to the quantities of foodstuffs that have been held over, not to supply a scant season after one in which there has been more than plenty, but for the purpose of gambling in these foodstuffs. The company against which the prosecution in this county is being made is the Greenwich Cold Storage company. Magistrate Corbridge issued a summons against it as a corporation and also against Laurens D. Prior, the president. The complaint states that Prior admitted to two inspectors that his company had violated the law in not stamping the date of entrance and exit of foodstuffs from the company's warehouses.

Married life; Second Year

WHEN HELEN ENTERED the closed blind-drawn, dust-covered apartment her first impulse had been to give way to hysterical sobbing. But the prompt appearance of Mrs. Grady, the janitor's wife, to help her unpack and straighten out, had checked the tears.

Helen had some knowledge of Mrs. Grady's gossiping tendency, and determined to give her no chance to talk.

"I wanted to surprise Mr. Curtis," she explained, "so I sent for Della to meet me, not knowing that Mr. Curtis had closed the apartment."

"Oh, yes, ma'am, Della's been gone form more th'n a month. And Mr. Curtis, he ain't slept here since."

As soon as she could, she got rid of Mrs. Grady. She wanted to be alone when she telephoned Warren.

It was now a quarter of four. She would let him come at once. Somehow now that all her plans had miscarried, she had not the heart to put on the dainty white gown she had planned. She was too tired to do anything but lie down until he came.

She went to the telephone and gave his office number. Would he know her voice at once? How surprised he would be! In spite of her weariness she thrilled with the thought that in a moment she would be talking to him.

"Hello, is this 1125 Cortlandt? Will you give me Mr. Warren Curtis?"

"He has just left," answered the girl.

"When will he be back?"

"Why, he's gone for the day."

"Gone for the day! Oh, I must reach him somehow! This is Mrs. Curtis. I've just gotten in—he was not expecting me. Where can I get him now?"

"Oh, I'm very sorry, Mrs. Curtis, but I don't know where you could reach him now. He just left about five minutes ago."

Helen hung up the receiver in despair. She could no longer check the tears. How miserably her plans had failed! Oh, why had she not telegraphed Warren in the first place? Why had she planned this surprise?

And now must she spend the whole evening and night here alone? Oh, no, no, she could not—that would be too hard!

She had had no luncheon and little breakfast, for it was always difficult for her to eat on a train. And now the faintness of hunger was added to that of fatigue.

She could call up his mother—he might be staying there. But she shrank from letting his people know that she had managed so badly. That she had arrived with no one to meet her and was now forced to telephone around for her husband!

The Carlton Club! He might be there now! He often stopped there on his way from the office. And to call him there would be so much less humiliating than telephoning his family.

Hurriedly she called up the Carlton Club and waited while the clerk had him paged.

"Mr. Curtis is not here," he finally announced.

"Do you expect him in during the evening?"

"I can't say as to that. Sometimes he comes in and sometimes he doesn't."

"Well, if he should come, wouldn't you tell him that Mrs. Curtis is at home and wishes him to call her up at once?"

"Yes, ma'am. I'll see he gets the message."

There was nothing to do but to call up his people. He might not go to the club at all. And she could not spend the whole evening and night alone.

It was a maid who answered when Helen finally called up his home. She was glad she did not have to talk with any member of the family just then.

No, Mr. Warren Curtis was not there, the maid informed her.

"But he is staying there, isn't he? Doesn't he sleep there at nights now?"

"Sometimes—not always," answered the girl.

"Well, if he comes in this evening, will you tell him to call up his own apartment? Do you understand—his own apartment?"

"Yes, ma'am."

But as soon as Helen hung up the receiver, she began to worry about that message. Had the girl understood her? Why hadn't she said she was Mrs. Curtis? It was foolish to try to keep his people from knowing—they would know in the end. Oh, why could she do nothing right today? Why was everything going wrong?

It was almost 5 now. Tired as she was, she must try to get something to eat for Winifred and herself. They would both be sick if they went longer without food.

A search through the pantry disclosed only a box of stale crackers and some canned goods. She made out a hurried list of essentials, bread, butter, milk, eggs, etc., and telephoned to the grocer to send them over at once.

But when the grocer's boy emptied a basketful of brown paper parcels on the kitchen table she gazed at them helplessly. She was too tired, too heartsick to open those packages. So she poured a glass of milk for Winifred and one for herself, leaving the other things untouched.

She was tired—tired, more tired than she had ever been before.

So this was the realization of all her plans for a beautiful surprise! The evening on which she had expected to be so happy with Warren she must now spend alone in this dusty, unkempt apartment.

But just then, as she was staring hopelessly at a figure in the rug, there came from the hall a faint preparatory stir of the telephone bell.

She started up breathlessly. Was it going to ring? Sometimes that whirring sound was only a false alarm. Another second and it rang loudly. Warren—Warren! Oh, if it was only Warren! She flew out to the hall.

"Yes—hello!" she called excitedly.

And it was Warren! Never had his voice sounded so deep and strong.

Never had she been so glad to hear it.

"Oh, where are you—where are you?"

"At the club. Just got your message. I'll be there in fifteen minutes. It's too bad, dear; how did it happen? Didn't you telegraph?"

"Oh, I wanted to surprise you, so I telegraphed Della and she isn't here. Oh, it's been dreadful."

"Well, I should say. I'm awfully sorry, kitten. But never mind. Put on your prettiest dress and we'll go out and celebrate. Now hurry, I'll be there in fifteen minutes. Goodby."

In fifteen minutes! Could she bathe and dress in fifteen minutes? Already she was getting out of her clothes, as she ran to the bathroom and turned on the water. While the tub was filling she unstrapped her trunk and dragged out her prettiest gown—the one she had planned to wear.

All her weariness was gone now. All the distress and discomfort of the day were forgotten. She was breathlessly happy. They were to have their beautiful evening together after all.

Dress Well Cut

Easy To Finish

The proof of good dressmaking is in good cutting. If a dress be well cut, you will have no trouble at all about putting it together. These few hints from an experienced dressmaker may, therefore, be of service to the amateurs among my readers.

When you are cutting out a skirt, always allow plenty of turnings around the waist and hips; and remember that if your hips are large in proportion to your waist, it is best to get a pattern a couple of inches larger than the waist, rather than one that just fits. It is easy then to take the goods in at the waist if the pattern is too large at this place.

When you are cutting a striped skirt, remember that even though you may be told on the pattern to place one side to a selvege, it is advisable to use rather your own common sense and as a rule at least, to cut each side slightly on the bias. If this is done, the joining place is not nearly so noticeable as if one side is on the bias and the other on the straight.

A New Cake Rule

If you wish to have soft, fluffy, light and moist cakes follow this rule. Never beat the eggs, add the unbeaten yolks to the creamed butter and sugar, add the whites after all the other ingredients have been added, just stirring enough to mix well with the batter. This is against all established rules of cake making, but after one trial the doubter is convinced.

PEACH DELIGHT—Peel and halve two dozen large, ripe peaches; put the pits in a small saucepan, cover with one and a quarter cupfuls of water and boil for ten minutes, then strain; with one cupful of sugar mix thoroughly two tablespoonfuls of flour. In a deep baking dish put a layer of the peaches, sprinkle with a part of the mixed sugar and drop over this one teaspoonful of butter cut into bits. Add a second and third layer of the fruit, finishing in the same way, and pour over all the water strained from the pits. Make a rich biscuit crust with one and one-half cupfuls of sifted flour, one-half of a teaspoonful of salt, three tablespoonfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder and sufficient milk to mix to a soft dough. Roll out one-half of an inch thick, place it over the fruit, make several cuts for steam to escape and bake in a moderate oven. In serving cut the crust in pieces like pie, lay on it the fruit and pass with it a pitcher of cream.

Before cutting cut sleeves always double your material and cut the two together. Then you are bound to cut them right, and they will match properly. If the material be striped, see that the stripes come directly over one another. Pin the material to make sure, as nothing looks worse than two sleeves, the stripes in one of which do not match those in the other.

HOT EGG SALAD—Into a small saucepan put one tablespoonful of olive oil and set over the fire. When very hot break into it three fresh eggs; as they begin to set, stir them slightly so as to partially mix the yolks and whites and yet have them show separately. When firm turn out on a dish, garnish with chopped pickles and a little freshly grated lemon peel and serve at once with a French dressing.

Her Pen Name.

A Scottish lady who wanted a servant so badly that she hurriedly took one without a recommendation happened one day to look into a book which belonged to the girl, and immediately thereafter went to her with some uneasiness expressed in her face.

"Is this your book, Sarah?" she asked.

"Yes, mum."

"How is this, then? When you came you told me your name was Sarah Brown; but here in this book is the name, 'Bridget McInty.'"

"It's all right, mum," said the girl; "that's me nondy plume."

London Tit-Bits

A Just Reproof.

"Mary," said a lady to her cook, "I strongly object to your copying Miss Lucy in your dress."

"In what do I copy her?" asked the cook, with an angry sniff.

"Why, the hat you wore yesterday is exactly like my daughter's new hat."

"Oh, no, it isn't, mum," said the cook, with a sneer. "The feather in my 'at is real ostrich, but Miss Lucy's is only imitation!"—Judy.

A HOT ONE.

"Never mind, I still hope to have the luck to win you."

"It'll take more than luck to win me. I'm no raffle doll."

His Suggestion.

"What wor that I saw yer boy Mike crrryin' yesterday?" asked Mr. Dolan.

"That," answered Mr. Rafferty, "wor his golf outfit. What do you think iv it?"

"Well, it struck me at the time that all it wanted was a pick an' shovel to be a fine kit o' tools."—Indianapolis News.

377 Persons Attend State Fair

377 persons purchased tickets for Columbus to attend the State Fair, Wednesday morning, and both the special train and 102 were crowded, and it was with difficulty that all were able to find room on the trains.

Of the 377 who went to the fair, 207 purchased tickets one way and 170 purchased round trip tickets. The jam was so great at the Union Depot in Columbus this morning that mail trains were forced to wait for fifteen minutes—something very unusual.

Those who attend the fair will do well to purchase round trip tickets, thus saving a scramble to buy return tickets at the Union Station.

No Rural Mail On Labor Day

Next Monday being Labor Day and a legal holiday, the rural mail will not be delivered on that day, unless patrons call at the delivery window at the local postoffice during the hours the office will be open.

Regular holiday hours will be observed by the postoffice. No unusual demonstrations will mark the day in this city.

THE TICKET SALE FOR Elks' Excursion ASSUMING BIG PROPORTIONS

A good sale of tickets is reported for the Elks' big excursion Wednesday of next week, when a mammoth crowd is expected to enjoy one of the cleanest excursions ever run out of Washington, and perhaps the largest that ever left this city.

The excursion to Buckeye Lake, personally conducted by the Washington Lodge of Elks, leaves this city at 6:30 a. m. Wednesday morning, Sept. 6th, and returning trains leave Buckeye Lake at 5:30 p. m. Reports from all over the county indicate a successful excursion in point of numbers, and the advance sale of tickets will give the Elks an opportunity to have enough cars in readiness, and efforts will be made to seat everyone comfortably.

Tickets are on sale at most of the leading stores, and hundreds have been sold at this early date. This is an excursion that will attract entire families because of the good order guarantee, and the ideal trip for a day's pleasure and all that goes with a wholesome outing.

Mere Boys Fight Over Girl

One Shot and Killed and Assailant Makes His Escape.

Stroudsburg, Pa. Aug. 30.—George Bellis, 14, was shot and killed by Harvey Osborn, 15. The young slayer then made his escape. Both were paying attention to a young girl who was staying with the Bellis family. The Osborn boy had said he would shoot the Bellis boy if he wouldn't tell something the girl is alleged to have said about him.

Elected Offices.
Columbus, O., Aug. 30.—Harmony marked the opening session of the annual convention of the Ohio branch, Junior Order of United American Mechanics. There was no contest for any of the state offices, and the following officials were elected: Dr. Arthur C. Baur of Cincinnati, state counselor; E. C. Lindsay of Ravenna, state vice counselor; Dr. H. C. Wenner of Tiffin, state treasurer.

Mrs. Ford Sued.
Cincinnati, O., Aug. 30.—Suit was begun in common pleas court by Dr. Ralph Reed against Mrs. Jeannette Stewart Ford, the "woman in the Wariner embezzlement case," to recover $800 alleged due for professional services. Dr. Reed attended Mrs. Ford in the hospital and in court at the trial of Edgar Street Cooke, the Chicago broker, acquitted on a charge of embezzling Big Four funds.

LOSS OF TIME.

MEANS LOSS OF PAY.

Kidney trouble and the ills it breeds means lost time and lost pay to many a working man. M. Balent, 1214 Little Penna. St., Streator, Ill., was so bad from kidney and bladder trouble that he could not work, but he says: "I took Foley Kidney Pills for only a short time and got entirely well and was soon able to go back to work, and am feeling well and healthier than before." Foley Kidney Pills are tonic in action, quick in results—a good friend to the working man or woman who suffers from kidney ills. The Soda Fountain Has Done Much Toward Helping the Temperance Cause

Within the last few years there has been hundreds of thousands of Soda Fountains built and put into service throughout the United States. During the same number of years there has been thousands and millions of people drinking these pure fruit juice beverages. Every year there are many more who join this happy and healthful band of Soda drinkers to quench their thirst, satisfy their appetites and relieve their hunger. Thousands who once drank Beer and Whisky and other intoxicants, now drink the unfermented fruit juice beverages, because they find there is no harm in them.

Thousands of towns and cities have driven the Saloon from their midst, but never has any prosperous city or town prohibited the sale of SODA WATER.

THE COZY CORNER HAS A PERFECTLY SANITARY SODA FOUNTAIN AND SERVES ALL THE POPULAR PURE AND UNFERMENTED FRUIT JUICE SODAS. OUR SERVICE IS UNEXCELLED—OUR PARLOR IS CLEAN, NICELY FURNISHED, WELL VENTILATED AND PROPERLY KEPT.

Then patronize the Soda Fountain—lend your influence to the Fountain Man and thus help build up and honest and harmless industry—one that will eventually stamp out the old booze habit and leave the country all drinking Pure Unfermented Fruit Juice Sodas.

JOINS "USE-TO-WUZZERS" JOHNSON'S NUMBER IS 137

Claude Johnson, the gentleman of color, who was placed under arrest for bootlegging last Saturday, and has since reposed in the safety deposit box usually called the county jail, was arraigned before the mayor Tuesday evening, and voluntarily offered a plea of guilty, realizing that he would probably escape with an easier sentence than if he insisted in fighting the case and then losing out. Johnson had been under suspicion for some time but had proven as elusive as an eel. When arrested Saturday he declared upon his word and honor that he was innocent of the charge. Three days sweat in the "coop" behind steel bars was too much, and he decided that he was guilty and would cast himself upon the mercy of the "cote."

Upon his plea of guilty, Mayor Allen gave him the usual $200 and costs, and told Johnson that if he wanted to join the ranks of the "used-to-wuzzers," and hie himself from the fair gates of the city, he could do so and the fine would be suspended until he darkened the gates of Washington with his return, when it would be suspended no longer. Johnson announced his intention of departing hence, and concluded Dayton was good enough for him. He has until Sept. 15th to dig out and in the order of departure, his serial number is 137.

Two Ways Hath Life.
Two ways hath life. One as a stream
With flowers environed quits the source,
The even tenor of its course.
Hardly betrayed by transient gleam,
No echo marks the onward roll
Of waves that without plaint or sigh,
Winning scant glance from passerby,
Unhasting reach the appointed goal.
One as a torrent unconfined
Bursts forth headlong with frenzied
Will.
No agency its rage can still,
Nor barriers curb, nor forces bind.
The first achieves, the second aims;
One limps; hath, the other none,
With every day its task begun—
Patience, ambition, are their names.
—Alfred de Musset.

Jogged His Memory.
Here is the story of an actual experience in buying socks in London:
A wealthy but peppery American went into an expensive Bond street haberdasher's the other day, and when he stated his object the clerk carefully measured the visitor's right foot, and the purchase was made. On his way out the visitor's attention was caught by some hosiery near the door. To the clerk, who was obsequiously following him out, he said, "I'll take a pair of those too."
"Yes, sir," said the clerk. "What size do you wear, sir?"
"Why, you pinheaded ass," reminded the other, "do you think my foot has grown since you measured it?"
Then the clerk remembered.—New York Sun.

"Cupid The Conqueror"

The little winged God at his best—one of the neatest picture phantasies ever shown on the curtain—pictures of this kind are rare because they are difficult to produce, calling for stage and photographic tricks that are not always sure of success. However the Thanouser trade-mark is a sufficient guarantee that it is an unusual story, with unusual effects, unusually well presented and really worth seeing.

BANK PROTECTS CUSTOMERS.
A curious incident is reported from Paris throwing light upon the policy of the Rothschild bank in that city. No new accounts are allowed to be open with the Rothschilds nowadays, but any old customer or any descendant of an old customer while he keeps a balance in the bank is never reminded how small the balance is or even that it has been overdrawn.—American Hebrew.

WHAT DID SHE MEAN?

CAN YOU USE 12,000 EXTRA VOTES.

Between Thursday, Aug. 24 and Thursday, Aug. 31, at 5:30 P. M., the following offer will be effective;

12,000 Extra Votes will be given for 12 New Subscriptions.

30,000 Extra Votes will be given for 25 New Subscriptions

These extra votes will be allowed besides the regular number given for each subscription, and will be given for the required number of new subscriptions to the Washington Daily Herald, the Ohio State Register, or both. Do not confine yourself to one club of 12 or 25, new subscribers, but get as many clubs as you can. The more clubs you get the higher you will run.

Subscriptions that are mailed outside of the city before the extra vote offer expires will be allowed extra votes even if they are not received at this office until next day. This will give contestants in District No. 2 an even chance with the Washington candidates to work up until the hour the offer closes.

$600 Schaff Bro. Player Piano

First Grand Prize 2nd Grand Prize

$600 Schaff Bros. Player Piano

This beautiful Player Piano will be given to the person having the largest number of votes in the Register-Herald's Great Voting Contest, and was bought of J. A. Smalley, who will shortly have the instrument on exhibition at his store-room on West Court St., next door to the T. C. DeWees photo gallery, also in Exhibition hall at the County Fair next week.

This player piano carries with it an unlimited warranty and is the most simply constructed player on the market, one lever acting for the tempo, start, stop and rewind, making it possible for a child to operate it and play any style of music, from ragtime to the most classical.

The tone of this instrument, its volume of sound and artistic workmanship have earned for it the distinction of being one of the finest player pianos ever brought into Fayette county. Call at Smalley's store on West Court street and examine this prize.

$265 Link & Son Piano

This piano, also made by the Schaff Bros., of Chicago, Ill., and Huntington, Ind., has no equal on the market for the price. The people making this piano have been located in Chicago since the year 1868, since which time their financial rating has been unsurpassed by any of their competitors. They were the first firm to make upright pianos in Chicago after the great fire of 1872, and a steady improvement has marked the quality of their product ever since.

This piano was purchased from J. A. Smalley and is on exhibition at the storeroom next to the DeWeese photograph gallery. The many excellent features of this instrument, combining a double veneered maple-lined mahogany case, light, perfectly balanced and sympathetic action and soft mellow tone make it one that anyone who is a lover of music would be proud to own.

$265 Link & Son Piano

DISTRICT FIRST PRIZE

$200 Bed Room Suite

In Circassian Walnut, consisting of one standard sized Dresser, one Chiffonier with five large drawers, and one Bed with the new style roll top head and foot boards.

This suite would adorn a palace. It is a prize that will stand the test of time. It will ever be a thing of beauty, fit to hand down to children and grandchildren as an heirloom of Twentieth Century art.

This prize can be seen at the store of The Fayette County Hardware Co., where it was purchased. This firm's well known reputation for square dealing is a sufficient guarantee that this beautiful prize is all that is claimed for it.

DISTRICT SECOND PRIZE

$40 HAVILAND CHINA DINNER SET

This eighty-piece genuine Haviland China Dinner Set, which was purchased of S. S. Cockerill & Son, will be awarded as the District Second Prize.

Haviland & Co., the makers of this beautiful ware, and S. S. Cockerill & Son, the local dealers, guarantee each piece in this set to be absolutely perfect in every way. Each piece bears two stamps. The green one shows that the body of the article was made by Haviland & Co., while the red stamp is a guarantee that the decorations are also a work of this wonderful factory. When examining these dishes please note that they bear both the green and red stamps.

This ware is beautifully decorated in gold, and each piece has been kept free from water so that the monogram of the owner may be put on if desired. The set consists of the following articles: 12 Dinner Plates, 12 Pie Plates, 12 B. and B. Plates, 12 Teas and Sauces, 12 Fruit Saucers, 1 meat Platter, 1 Footed Salad Dish, 1 Baker, 1 Sauce Boat, 1 Covered Sugar and 1 Creamer, forming a prize that will not only be appreciated by the winner and admired by all her friends, but that is as good as money will buy.

DISTRICT FIRST PRIZE

$125 Diamond Ring

This ring was purchased at the store of C. A. Gossard & Co., who guarantee it to be a pure and flawless stone. If C. A. Gossard & Co. added not one word of assurance, this beautiful little gem would speak for itself.

The perfect color, correct cut and proportion give it the scintillating brilliancy that comes only in the perfect stone. It is a gem no better than which adorns the hand of royalty—it is a prize that any young lady may well strive for.

To the energetic woman who wins it, this beautiful gem will be as a legacy in the bank. Its value is eternal and can never grow less. The person who wins this prize is not required to take the ring which we have selected, but CAN HAVE THE CHOICE OF ALL $125 DIAMONDS in the store of C. A. Gossard & Co.

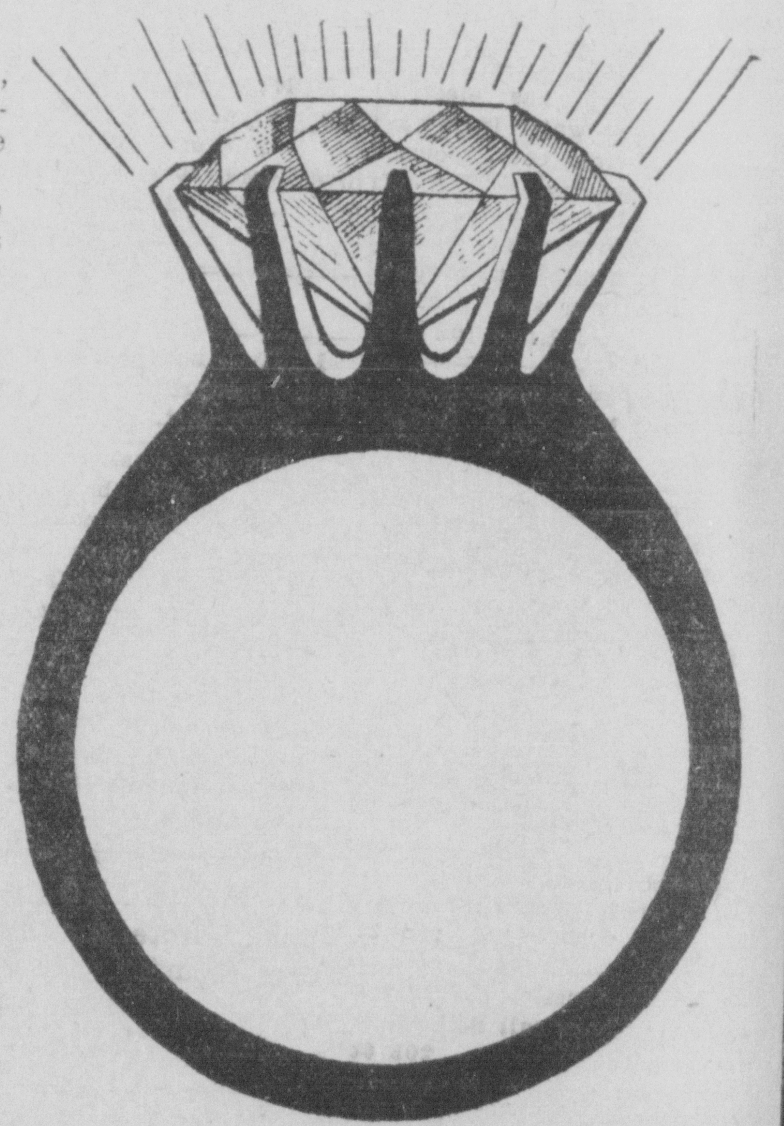

DISTRICT SECOND PRIZE

$75.00 Diamond Ring

This stone, purchased of W. H. Hettesheimer, Jeweler, is not quite as large as the diamond offered as the District First Prize, but it is a good sized gem, perfect in color and absolutely flawless. It has a Tiffany setting, and will make a splendid prize for some worthy young lady.

W. H. Hettesheimer guarantees this ring to be exactly as it is here advertised, and the person who wins it can have their CHOICE OF $75 DIAMONDS IN HETTESHEIMER'S store.

Young ladies, here is a chance to secure that coveted diamond. Perhaps you may never have the opportunity of getting another. Some person is going to be the proud possessor of this valuable prize. Why not you? It will not cost you a cent.
